THE FINANCIAL POSITION continues, wesk after week, just the same quiet, monotonous affair we have so long known it, and no touch of novel'y exists to the ow laterest into it; so it is bere, so it is everywhere. The New York Post says: "Our money market is very much in the condition of the London market; that is there are large amounts of idle money which general distrust keeps out of legitimate enterprises or use in trade, and which seeks employment other in demand loans or in first-class securities.

The following shows the course of the Memphis market and the price of mid-The ruiting rate for demand loans is per cent., with 11 and 21 the exception rates. The same paper says London: "Consols have not been high since 1859, when they sold at 97 The rise is due to the plethors of mone in London, which is so great that it almost impossible to land it on deman at any rate. If used in discountly prime 3 months bills, it cannot be es ployed better than at 1@1; per cent. p annum. Choice securities are therefor sought, and it would not be surprising see consols advance to 101 or 102, it highest prices on record, and which we made the former in 1853 and th later in 1852." Silver has so vanced in London to 491 a ounce. The gold or bullion value the su'sidiary silver coin is 781 cents the dollar ($0.7812); that is, the bullio In two halves, four quarters and to dimes is worth 782 cents. The general wave of commercial depression is not seriously felt in England. While the Banks of England and of France, at of the United States, and generally th financial markets of the world, hav unprecedented volumes of money await ing investment, there is a general protration. The manufactures of Englan are mersurably stagnant; the iron an estion productions have lost their mar kets. The effect on labor is severe. Op eratives are discharged, wages reduced transportation diminished, and income largely abridged. Expenses of living and expenses of doing business are curtailed by the discharge of all clerks and servants who can be dispensed with. OUR COTTON MARKET review a week sgo quoted middling cotton selling i New York at 11‡2; it fall to 11 11-16. New Orleans quoted 11 tc, and there re mained. Liverpool quoted 5, 1, au-continued unconnect Memphis quote 10 c, which was also unchanged. Thi statement shows that the cotton marke during the week was steady, a decline of 1-16c in New York being the only change. The markets, however, ware generally weak, dull, and heavy in their tone; there was little life or activity The Europea war news may be consid ered as favorable, the large powers stauding clear of the contest, but the state of general trade is extremely discours girg there, and although the statistical postion of cotton is good, the prevailing de pression takes all animation out of the cotton market. The condition of the crops also tends to keep prices down. The Chronicle's report pronounces the Week favorable for crops; showers were general and their effect beneficial. There is little talk of caterpillars in one or two places, but no serious damage is report ed. Apathy has been the prevailing feature in our own market during the week. Orders have been few, as spin ners are buying only "from hand to mouth:" were it not that an enterprising exporter has shown some activity in purchasing, the week's sales would have Total 3,963,832 3,947,700 3,602,840 8,332,379 2,598,02 een meagar indeed. Except a slight decline in ordinary cottrices have been without change in this market. Buyers generally complain that the offerings on the tables are not what they look for with a stock of 20,000 bales of cotton on band and a new crop rapidly approaching un-der favorable auspices. Money is easy to get and on low terms, and holders of desirable cottons cannot make up their mind to sell at the present low rates, although they allege no reason for expecting a favorable change. That the bountiful harvest that now promis s will do much toward reviving public confidence, and that if it be well got in, a better state of things will exist after the Presidential election has removed the political confusion, is the prevalent expectation. This does not relieve cotton, however, from the effects of the excessive depression of trade in Europe; if those who buy our cotton are in difficulties, those who sell it cannot fall t feel the effects of the trouble. The weekly review of the New York marke in the New York Bulletin, says there a want of a buoyant healthy tone, and when any elight improvement has been manifested, it has been the consequence of "manipulation." That paper says "Our home consumption does not in crease to the extent it should at this ses son; the advices from Manchester b mail, just at hand, have all shown more or less discouraging tone the crop accounts, thus far, have continued as favorable as could be wished, and the speculative element on the market grows smaller and affords less support than heretofore." On the whole, the stter portion of the cotton season of 1875-6 is disappointing, and patience to "grin and bear it" sppears to be all that is visible for the cotton dealers just now. The following, from the New York Bulletin, of Thursday last, a paper of high ahthority, merits serious consideration: "Some of the New Eugland cotton manufacturers have recently favored a material curtailment of production or a total suspension of work, as a means of precipitating what fall in cotton may In our market there was inquiry from yet have to occur, and thereby reaching, exporters, who took 450 bales in addition at an earlier period, a safe bottom of prices; but it has been found impossible to agree upon any common action, and the drifting policy is still continued. Without undertaking at present to say whether this passive course is preferable to active efforts to bring down raw materials to their ultimate bottom, it may be safely maintained that the condition of affairs, in this and other countries, points to the prospect of a still further Not only here, but in all the countries of Europe and in the great Asiatic markets, especially which spinners took 50, exporters 700 India, business is still subject to a bales. Dusty cottons quote 5@64c; very severe depression. In England, stained, 7@9c. Price of middling same the chief manufacturing country, there | time last year, 14 c. is a reaction in progress like that through which we have passed in this country, which is likely to produce, before it is consummated, a far more severe depression of business than there exists at present. The India market, on which Manchester is so largely dependent, is thrown into such a condition of derange ment, through the depreciation of silver, that there is no trling what discster to the colton good trade may arise from that cause. With such influences affecting all the great markets for cotton markets has not yet culminated, and that the point at which affairs may be expected to take a favorable turn is Mob Receipts in Memphis during the official week aggregated 458 bales, against William 19 bales the previous week, and 167 balt bales the corresponding wank last season. THE COTTON MARKET yesterday

(Monday) was strengthened by tidings of a buoyant market at Liverpool, a 1-16d higher, and wonder was expressed as to what had caused the change. New Orleans closed strong, but New York futures-where, it is understood, a good deal of manipulation is going on-weak. to 250 bales after the hour of reporting on Saturday evening. Spinners forders are scanty, but there is some good ordinary and low middling wanted, which is hard to find. Quotations at the Memphis cotton exchange were as follows:

same time last year, 112%. THE PRODUCT MARKET WAS VERY dull yesterday, assisted by a heavy fall of rain, and at no time during the week has there been any liveliness. The downward course of prices in almost everything causes very cautious buying The Chicago dispatch received by Huls & Co. yesterday morning was as follows: "Receipts of wheat 35,000 bushels, August 89§, September 92§c; receipts of corn 250,000 busnels, August 44c, September 444: August pork, $18 324, September, $18 424; August lard, 10 75, September, 10.871 " Corn in our market washeavy and uncertain of price, but the heavy rain made it difficult to feel the market exactly, and stopped sales. There was some inquiry for shelled, which, it was supposed would have brought 44c, but only one small lot strived. Over 200 sacks of ear corn were on the market, but the rain interrupted the sale; 43c had been offered. Oats are in no demand; 80 sacks of new were offered at 353 without a taker. Bran is very quiet; a car-load sold at $11 50 and anoth er at $12; more was offering at $12 Hay was offering, but so little is doing quotations are of little worth; say, new prairie, $9; common, $10@12; prime, $15@ 18; choice, $20@22. Wheat is in falling in the first markets, and a finemusty and was r jected. Commeal was higher; sales at $2.65 later in the day $2.70. at the close $2.75 is demanded; the St. Louis Republican, of Saturday, reports "cornmeal excited and higher caused by the scarcity and advance in price of milling corp. Sales 900 barrels city at $2 40@2 45 del., early; later at $2 50@2 55 delivered." Potatoes are in small offering; common refused; good, per barrel measure from wagous, $1@ 10. Apples good enough for shipping are few; choice in demand; shippers of fer $1@1 50 a barrel measure. Onions meet with very little attention, and sell $1 10 c. in store at $2@2 25 in shipping order. Cabbage in small arrival with little demand; good, $3 50@4 a crate. Eggs are not in favor, and sed from 6e to 7e, with Se occasionally, and often below any of these prices. A dealer tried selling three dozen for a quarter in market on Saturday evening, but after an indignant Irishwoman tried the quality of a quarter's worth, on his own head, face and shoulders he quit the business. Chickens were few, no express arriving, but quotations remained at $1 25@2 25, with $2 50 for large and fi e, and $2 75@3 for good old hens. Surely somebody's ice-house has busted. The river continues to decline, and planters are happy. The Rosa Miller is the regular Arkan-eas river packet, leaving this evening. The Bee and barges, bound for St. Louis, passed up yesterday afternoon. The Bob Lee's chandeliers are of solid brass, and cost four hundred dollars esch. The John B. Maude, up for St. Louis Sunday evening, added one hundred bales cotton here. We didn't hear of any sunstrokes in this city yesterday. They had to hunt up some other name for it. The Commonwealth passed down yes-terday morning, but did no business.

A dispatch from Shreveport, night, says that the river has fallen two inches at Carclina bluffs, and that the fall would resch there by to-day. No material dargage to the crops along Old river, but from the raft to Fulton the destruction is very great. The damage to the ecuton crop by the late flood in the upper river is estimated at twenty thousand bales.

The Frank Forrest is being overhauled and repainted, preparatory to taking the place of the Osceola Belle in the upper coast trade. Mr. W. A. King is superintending the repairs, and will have them finished by Friday next. The Forcest will be refurnished with new cabin furniture and new bedding, and when she goes out on Friday next will be as good as when first built. The A. J. White went out last even-

The Illinois, after a thorough overhauling from bottom to top, takes her place, in the Memphis and Vicksburg trade this evening, and when the folks down the river see her, if they don't look at the name on the wheelhouse they will think there is a new boat coming. She never looked better the day she first come off the docks than she looked yesterday morning when she dropped down to her moorings at the levee. It is useless to speak of the popu-larity of the Illinois in the bends and at all the points within the radius of her trade, for her name has become as familiar as pig-tracks, and could not be otherwise when such men as Mark Cheek, Joe Speers, Phinn Starr, the captain, clerk and mate are aboard. ('aptain Cheek has overcome slmost unsurmountable difficulties with the Illinois in the Vicksburg trade, as it has been a hard road to travel to establish a line from here to Vicksburg against such formidable competition with which he has had to battle; but he went in to win, and by strict integrity, promptness and dispatch, and the closest nursing of the interest of the patrons of the Illinois, he today can boast a success far beyond even his own expectations. Having had his pretty boat thoroughly put in trim, re-painted, refurnished, and her accommodations otherwise improved, the Illinois starts out on her second season under the most favorable suspices. Her old officers and crew, who have helped to win this great victory, will be found at their posts. She leaves at five o'clock this evening.
